

Book a career conversation

Need help planning your studies?

Use the calendar below to book a free introductory career conversation with one of our study advisors, to better understand your goals and study options.

What is a career conversation?

- We will call the phone number you provide at the scheduled time.
- The call will last approximately between 15 and 30 minutes during which time the advisor will gain a general understanding of your current personal situation and can guide you through your study options.
- The advisor will be able to answer your questions regarding NMIT and your particular areas of interest. If there are any aspect that requires further follow up, the advisor will contact you (usually by email) after the call with this information.
- Available only to New Zealand Domestic students. International students can contact us\(external link\) for more information.

Please note, this is not an independent professional career counselling service. Careers.govt.nz\(external link\) is a good resource for more information.
